A few words from our Imperial Majesties

Greetings Unto the Populace of Adria,

We would like to thank everyone for all the hard work they have done this year. We understand that it is hard to adjust to changes and appreciate everyone's compliance in helping us to create a more professional organization.

We will be utilizing our time in the upcoming year to streamline processes throughout the Empire and need your help. If there is anything that is not working and needs to be addressed, let us know and we will be happy to help you fix it, within reason.

Adria has been growing and will be adding more subdivisions very soon. Look for new subdivisions throughout the Midwestern and Southern States. Also, be on the lookout for increased growth in existing subdivisions. Please help the New Crowns and members with questions they may have to ensure smooth transitions into Adrian culture.

We would like to add some new Ministers for the upcoming year. If you are interested in an Imperial Ministry position, please contact us right away, directly, and we will try to accommodate your request. No one is too insignificant to be considered for a position, so please apply if you are truly interested, no matter how long you have been in Adria.

We are also accepting nominations for Imperial Awards. Please send any recommendations to us by October 15th. Include the person's game name, mundane name, subdivision, rank, any awards they already hold, the award you are nominating them for, and a brief explanation of why you feel they deserve it.

Thank you again for your support, patience, and enthusiasm. You are all truly special people.

Long Live Adria,

Pavo and Ashlinn, Emperor et Imperatrix, Adria

Adria Remembers One of It's Own

In any organization there are those among us who have made lasting impressions on the people within the group and on the Empire itself. When these wonderful souls depart our world and travel to the next it is sad for all of us; but we have to hold on to the memories that they gave to us.

Notice from the Imperial Minister of Joust and War

Let it be known that the combat privileges of Graham Burfield, a.k.a. Rojo Grande, within the Adrian Empire is suspended pending full investigation and rendering of a decision by the BOD. This will be with regard to injuring other members through continued disregard for safety regulations and multiple episodes of use of excessive force during Combat which violates our stated rules in the Combat and Marshalling Manuals. He is not to be allowed to participate in tournament combat, war scenarios or "pick-up" fights. Thank you for your attention.

YIS, Sir Arion Hirsch, Imperial Minister of Joust and War

From the Imperial Rolls Office

Greetings Unto the Populace:

As of this day, we had 12 subdivisions inputting information on the Rolls Data Base. We are slowly moving in the right direction.

For the newer subdivisions, Kincora, Gloucester, Brandenburg, EKG, Burgandy - updating the data base was a little easier with 2 years +/- to load - and for the most part these subdivisions are current. Now some of the participants who played in prior subdivisions, are still in need of their records being updated - please be patient.

First - not all subdivisions and yes, that includes Imperial, have the best set of history files.

We are all volunteers - some with mundane lives that are fuller than others. In addition, training across the board appears to have been less than sufficient. There appears to be various levels of understanding of guidelines to the Steps to Knighthood; DI's that should be within the same scope for all subdivisions across our Empire.

How can all of you help today? Sign the Event Sign In with the same name you used on the Membership form. Print the name and sign the form. The signature is not just for the adult responsible for a minor - the signature is for all. What the form indicates is - if the person is a minor - the responsible adult signs for that minor.

Rolls Manual V.F - "No participation will be awarded if the member does not sign in and pay the site fee (if any)."

Persona's change - people's last names change - "funny comments on the paperwork etc." can slow down the processing especially as you try and decipher who, what, where or when paperwork may precede your time. Two years from now - someone may need to refer to paperwork to clear questions for a third level knighting. If we all approach the paperwork as a necessary evil, it will make life much easier for the local and imperial volunteers to process much quicker and give us more time to focus on our own goals in Adria.

List Mistress / List Master - please be clear and succinct as to the tournament winner - use combat trees - identify the marshals and the water bearers.

Crowns - please be proactive with acknowledging and approving the service your populace and ministers give. These participation points can only be given with your approval. Help your Rolls Minister - be there for them - make it a point to ask your Rolls Minister if any signatures are required.

Requests for Third Level Review: Today this is not an overnight process. As more and more older records are recorded, the process will become much easier and more timely.

How can we assist the process as the Database moves forward: Check your records on a monthly basis - if the event has been posted and you do not see your participation - ask the question now - not a week before you have decided to take your 3rd level. For those who do not see any activity posted - please contact your local Rolls Minister first and ask if they are working with the Database. If they are working with the Database and you still do not see activity posted - ask your local Rolls Minister if they have mailed the hard copies to the Imperial office. When all these questions have been answered with a Yes - and you still do not see activity - contact your Crown.

Today - we make every effort to respond to a Crown and or Rolls Minister on the same day the e-mail is sent. However - the answer and or research can not always be given the same day. The response time is solely based on the history files that we have and the condition in which they were submitted.

To all the subdivisions who are actively posting their records - THANK YOU; to all who are asking questions - THANK YOU. To those subdivisions who are not yet with the program, please join in the effort to have all records available on line. An example that we are all looking forward to: We were sent a request for a 2nd level Ministry Knighthood - the records were available on line with the exception of 2 Imperial Events - the approval took less than 45 minutes to complete - start to finish. And that is how it should be.

YIS

Imperial Sovereign of Arms

Greetings and Salutations unto the populace of Adria

Imperial War West was HOT! There were many heat related problems through the weekend but the autocrats handled things in stride. I heard few complaints about the event itself, just the heat. Although the Hospitalers were outgunned on the field of honor by the Templars, as is so often the case the Arts and Sciences turned the tide and won the day. Huzzah to those razzafrazzin Hospitalers!

The College of Arms has been given a most wonderful gift. We are now in possession of a beautiful signet ring made by Sir Cledwynne. (mis-spelling is period...) :) It is my intent to use the ring going forward, which may require a policy change or two for the heraldic proposal process. Instead of only one color copy, we will eventually be requiring two. One for archival in the CoA files and one for the owner of a registered device with a nice official wax seal on it.

August was a fairly quiet month for heraldic proposals, which was actually a blessing as I had plenty to do getting ready for war and getting the online armorial ready to launch. The launch date looks like it will be in mid-October. For those of you who have previewed the site, thank you for your input and compliments. For those who have hindered the process, have a nice day. For those of you who have not seen it, just wait! I think you'll like it. :)

We want to encourage heraldic display! The more colorful and noticeable we are, the more apt those curious mundanes might be to come and ask us questions!

On an unrelated but no less important note, title stacking as recently discussed is a "SCA-bomination" and nothing more. Dame Lady This or Count Lord Sir That is not appropriate nor correct. The following is the correct form of title stacking: Current Station, Name, Titles in descending order, personal styles and then personal station. For this example we shall assume that the gentleman being heralded into court is a knight, a second level lord (formerly known as Lord Baronet), a seated duke, a retired king, a member of a recognized order, a domain, has a self proclaimed style and an honorary position.

"Announcing His Grace Duke Duckburg, Sir Rodney von Rodney, Count Royal of Terragon, Lord of the Court of Halberdville, Companion of the Royal Order of the Secret Handshake, Companion of the Domain of the Elusive Favors, Keeper of the brassier of giant candy and Personal Champion of Dame Matilda Clobberknockers."

Please keep this proper form in mind when either heralding a person into an event or in writing your personal name/rank/station down for the poor herald to decipher.

Not only does it sound so much better than Count Baron Lord Sir Dingleberry, it makes for much better theater!

In Service,

Sir Coda der Sohne des Drachen von Rammstein, Adrian Reich souverän von den Armen

To all and singular does the Imperial Sovereign of Arms of Adria send sad greetings and salutation.

Adria recognizes the nine worthies of history and allows the use of their devices in tournament for identification purposes when a combatant has no registered device of his or her own.

In recognition of the qualities and character of those Adrians who have left us, the College of Arms proclaims the 'Worthies of Adria'. The personal device of a Worthy of Adria will be protected by The College of Arms and may be displayed in remembrance at any Adrian event.

A person may be granted "Worthy of Adria" status by the Imperial Crown, the great estates of Adria or by the College of Arms.

We do hereby and herewith induct Sir Karl von Katzburg of Carolingia as a "Worthy of Adria" and declare his personal device "Azure, a fret within a border argent and overall a chief ermine" to be the first of the protected Worthies of Adria.

In memory of a dear friend, valiant adversary and a good man. We'll miss you Porkpie.

In Service,

Sir Coda der Sohne des Drachen von Rammstein, Imperial Sovereign of Arms

Greetings Unto the Populace of Adria:

Memberships: While we are ahead of last year as of this printing - there is concern over the 662 members that did not renew. The subdivisions have received the names of those people and we are asking if they can define reasons for non-renewal. There are the obvious: finances; moved out of state where there is no Adria presence; signed up at a faire and found Adria was not what they were looking for; sadly - deceased; conflicts with other members; or are they part of the defined 147 new members we did not seek out and they fell through the black hole? We can identify 46 members that left Adria to form their own groups - 3 separate groups. Membership retention is important for our group to grow. Is it possible that if each subdivision were to discuss Membership Retention within their group that we could reduce the amount that did not renew this year - in July 2007? Still to be determined after identifying the members who left to from new groups and the 1 year or less is 469.

The following Financial Report does not reflect the Imperial Wars as I am still holding for the reports for NE and SE as this is written.

Vital Signs

“Hypoglycemia”

By Sir Kaeyron A. Maethanos

Greetings, it and welcome to what I hope will be a recurring column. I am your Deputy Imperial Minister of Physicks and it is my goal to educate the populace of Adria. This column will include topics ranging from common medical ailments to the history of medicine.

This month's column deals with a common condition called Hypoglycemia. Looking at the etymology of the word will help us to understand what this condition is. First, hypo- a Greek word meaning low or beneath; then, glycemia meaning sugar, from the root word glycerin (a type of sugar), so Hypoglycemia means “Low Sugar.”

Many people we know, and probably some friends in the game, suffer from this. Some might know it, others might not. What we need to do is to look for warning signs such as:

1. Anxiety/Nervousness
2. Sweating
3. Coldness/Clamminess
4. Heightened Heart Rate
5. Nausea
6. Confusion
7. Might appear “Drunk”
8. Sluggishness
9. Slurred Speech

Factoid: Medieval doctors tested for low blood sugar by tasting the patient's urine to see if it tasted “sweet” as compared to “normal.” This was occasionally a scene which was depicted in some Gothic reliefs.*

We would encourage you NOT to use this particular test.

Not everyone experiences all of these symptoms at once, but these are what you need to examine a person for if you think they just might be suffering from hypoglycemia (Note: This is a serious medical condition.). If you see them looking or acting in a way that might indicate one or more of the above symptoms, ask them “Do you have diabetes or blood sugar problems?”

Most sufferers of hypoglycemia are aware of their problem and will use some ‘standard’ remedies. A hard candy is one of the classic remedies as it gives a quick blood sugar boost. If candies aren't available, some orange juice or some cake frosting (the kind that comes in decorators tubes at the supermarket – but not the sugar free variety) should raise their blood sugar levels out of the danger zone. Regardless of how you treat the condition on site, you also need to call 911 so that trained medical personnel can examine the patient and help the patient make a decision regarding further medical treatment, occasionally including going to the hospital. Even if your patient chooses not to go to the hospital, you want the 911 responders, not yourself, to help them make that decision.

Please tune into next months column.... “Chest Pains 101”.

From the Imperial Chronicler

Welcome to the second issue of the Herald with yours truly at the helm.

We have certainly had a lot going on inside our Empire since our last issue. The biggest event of course was our Imperial War over the labor day weekend. As you flip through the pages of this issue, remember the fun, laughs, and times that we have shared.

I would also like to mention that everyone should keep an eye on the various YaHoo groups for an announcement from this office very soon concerning an INTERACTIVE ONLINE version of the Herald. The Herald staff is working very hard to get it open for everyone to enjoy.

We hope you find this issue informative and enjoyable!

Primary Sources In Arts Documentation

In Adria, primary sources are used in the documentation for an Arts & Sciences entry to establish the period authenticity of the item or component parts of the item. Primary sources can include paintings, statues, books, journals, diaries, proclamations, broadsides, song lyrics, plays and account books; basically, anything that was created between 1066 and 1603. For the purposes of Adrian Arts & Sciences entries a reproduction of any of these items is considered to be adequate (Because, really, do you think the British Museum is just going to loan you that portrait of Queen Elizabeth? I didn't think so either.). Reproductions of these items can be found in modern history textbooks, literature anthologies, "coffee table" books published by major museums and on-line. Following are several free, reputable, academic websites with large, searchable online collections.

www.british-history.ac.uk This archive is maintained by the Institute of Historical Research and the History of Parliament Trust. It contains some of the core printed primary and secondary sources for the medieval and modern history of the British Isles, including shipping records, minutes from meetings of Parliament and judicial records. Do you want to know how much nutmeg cost? Whether dolls were period? This archive can (and has!) answered both of those questions.

www.labyrinth.georgetown.edu This online library is maintained by professors at Georgetown University and contains links to hundreds of electronic resources on medieval topics such as astronomy, religion, chivalry and medicine. You can also search specifically for material suitable for children, audiovisual material (which might contain primary sources) and primary sources.

www.intute.ac.uk/artsandhumanities/ Intute is an online library of electronic references in many different subjects and time periods. The data in this library is evaluated by the faculty at top British universities. The arts & humanities portion of the library contains over 18,000 separate entries searchable by keyword or browseable by topic.

Whether you are an artisan, interested in the arts or just looking for a way to kill some time looking at interesting things online these websites should do the trick. These are just a smattering of the online archives available to private researchers. Hopefully, by showing that primary source documents are available to those who don't have the luck to live near large libraries or research universities we can spur participation in the Arts & Sciences.

Memorial for a Fallen Member

By Dame Maud de Clayton
Portcullis Queen of Arms

It is with sadness that I must report that our beloved Imperial Highness, Sir Karl Von Katzburg (Carl Ontis), passed peacefully from this realm to the next on Wednesday, September 13, 2006. Sir Karl was 57.

Active for many years in the Empire, he served in many capacities, including twice as Emperor. He excelled in many areas, achieving knighthoods in Combat, Ministry, the Arts, and in Archery, becoming the Empire's first quadruple-belted knight. Sir Karl worked unceasingly to help Empire grow and prosper, and received many honors and accolades. As a tribute to his honor and dedication to the principals of chivalry, the Archduchy of Tierra del Fuego was renamed Carolingia (Karl's Land).

Sir Karl is survived by his wife, the Princess Elisabeth (Elizabeth Pidgeon-Ontis), his mother, and his many friends. Her Imperial Highness asks that in lieu of flowers, donations be made to Musicares (<http://www.grammy.com/Musicares>), Sir Karl's preferred charity.

Messages of condolence may be sent to Her Imperial Highness at dme_elisabeth@spcglobal.net.

In Loving Memory of Carl Ontis, HIH Karl von Katzburg From Their Imperial Majesties

Beloved friend, mentor, curmudgeon, and leader.

All too often the best people are taken from us too soon. Karl was one of those incredible people that you always hope to meet. His twisted sense of humor, keen sense of dignity, and sharp wit will be forever missed. His departure from our world will leave a blank void in Adria that will never be completely filled.

Without this man, we would not be the people we are today. To the man who taught us how to find humor in hard situations, fight for what is best in man, take pride in ourselves and our organization, figure out what those words in the bylaws "really" mean, and how to "run a two-hole outhouse"; we raise our glasses with the deepest of admiration and respect. You will be remembered in our hearts for all time.

Submissions for Imperial Events and Estates Meetings are due by the 30th of September. They must be accompanied by a full budget.

Everyone must submit their voting list for Imperial Estates.

All Crown, Rolls, and Stewards Reports for all subdivisions must be in by October 15th, otherwise, your subdivision will be put on notice at the Imperial Estates Meeting.

The following subdivisions will be placed on the Imperial Agenda for voluntary reduction of status due to lack of numbers:

Esperance, Umbria, Brandenburg, Carolingia, Cambridge, Ekaterinegorod, Desert Rose
Additionally, Bedegraine and Bisquaia will have their Charters revoked for zero membership.

If any of these subdivisions are able to correct their deficit, we will withdraw their item.

News from the Kingdom of Umbria

Umbrians have had a very hot summer, so some of our events have been canceled and rescheduled for later dates. Our 100 Degree War which was scheduled in July will be held in October, Sir Blackarrow and Dame Shahara, King and Queen of Umbria decided that 118 degree weather in July was just too HOT for the fighters' health.

As always when Umbrians hear the call to Imperial War, they are ready to fight and shoot archery. Sir Giatano took the win in Renn, HRM Sir Blackarrow took Champion in Archery, Dame Margarita took a Masterwork win in Arts and Science, Hazzah to all.

Sir Liam Lust was granted the title of Court Baron at Imperial war, by their Majesties. Baron Sir Lust served the Kingdom of Umbria in numerous Ministry positions since he became a member of Umbria. Congratulations to our newest Baron!!

Her Grace Sophia and Count Carlisle are making plans for a Gala Event in the month of November. Feast and dancing.

This Saturday is a Demo at a local school in Glendale, this will be Umbria's Monthly Kindom Tournament, fighting and arts and science will be held. Archery will be scheduled at a later date.

From the Kingdom of York

The Kingdom of York was proud to play host to HIM, Sir Pavo. We had attendees from York, Castilles, and Kincora. The battles went well, all had a goodtime despite the rain which ended things abruptly.

The rest of York's submissions are in the IWSE section of the newsletter.

Greetings and demo news from the Kingdom of Esperance

The Kingdom of Esperance sends greetings to our brother and sister subdivisions. Despite the heat we have endeavored to continue our contests of skill, strength and artistry. Added to our ranks are two newly belted knights. Sir Kit the Blue and Dame Larissa both took their first level knighthoods in ministry at the Imperial War West.

Our local events continue apace. Recently we invaded the Tall Ships Festival in Dana Point and made an excellent showing. We hope to return next year with more space and more combatants. A summary from the autocrat has been provided. Members of Esperance joined the Duchy of Sangrael in a demo "pre-show" for a presentation of "A Midsummer Night's Dream" at a Temecula Winery appropriately referred to as "Shakespeare in the Vines". We are told it was quite a hit (and the dents in our steel bears witness to that).

The Canton of Aquitane will become active again in January. The Kingdom is hopeful that this will allow some of the more far flung members a chance to participate more often.

Tall Ships festival, Demo Report

You missed it!

The Toshiba Tall Ships Festival was held on September 9th and 10th in Dana Point Harbor. Adria had a site right on the beach with a beautiful view of the ships at the dock and a cool breeze right off the water. We also had arm-bands to get our members into the paid exhibits and to visit the ships themselves for free. As if that wasn't enough, free coffee was available both mornings.

Sir William Ce'Wolf and myself, Sir Jamie the Red, headed down Friday afternoon and took our time setting up the site. We had room for the pavilion and a small list field beneath two large trees. We spent the night to keep an eye on the weapons and learned that we could have made a weekend event out of it.

Saturday we had thirteen attendees and at least 5,000 visitors. We were right on the highest traffic walkway in the festival and between the shuttle stop and the ships. Everyone came by our site. We had plenty of artists and we gave away almost 100 flyers and an uncounted number of business cards. Our only problem was the fact that there were only two steel suits present. Squire Cagar and I fought at least 10 times for the pleasure of the crowd on Saturday.

Sunday was as beautiful as Saturday. We had a slightly smaller turnout of Adrians, but the eight who were there made it work beautifully. Again, Squire Cagar and I fought repeatedly through the day, managing at least seven bouts. We had plenty of light weapons combatants to fill in the gaps during both days, so the lists were rarely empty. Again, there were plenty of artisans and arts to attract the eyes of passers by.

We had an exceptionally good time and everyone who attended enjoyed themselves immensely. The crowd was so impressed, they were talking us up to the other vendors. We even have pictures. Check out Dame Willow's pics from the Esperance Yahoo group to see the site and highlights from the event.

The Isle of Kincora

Upon the first molten rock which spewed from the earths fiery bowel did Boru step forth. "Here stands the begging and the ending of all things, here stands Kincora". He yelled, fist shaking to the heavens. Upon the second molten rock which spewed from the earths fiery bowel did Boru step forth. He shouted "it has begun and the end is near". And so Boru left Kincora, moving on to new lands which formed, shouting. "It has begun and the end is near". He forever became known as Boru, the Doom Bringer, but the race of man called him "Boru the Bastard". For it known in the prophecies of time, that when Boru returns and takes his final step once again upon Kincora, the end of all things will be at hand.

~from "The Legend of Boru"~

The Isle of Kincora formed within the lands of Castilles. Never before has such a separation happened within a subdivision with such respect and love. As a Grizzly old Baron, Sir Boru looked to establish the Shire of Kincora by first creating a canton within Castilles womb. But destiny called him towards a higher and just purpose as King of Castilles. He called upon one of the gallant knight of Castilles Sir Fergnany and made him Viceroy of Kincora. The soul of Kincora calls to the warrior spirit and soon the ranks and strength of Kincora grew. On a day of true wonder, the people of Castilles looked to their brothers and sister's and said "Go, and have fun!" This established the treaty of Kincora and Castilles. Being Knights of experience and trust, Sir Fergnany and Sir Bleyz MacBruce stepped forth as The Duke's of Kincora. During this time prosperity ensued. We warred with or Brother's and Sister's of Castilles with all the joy and sport of knights in days of youth. Our Viking clans pillaged continuously the neighboring cantons and Kingdoms, bringing back victories for all to enjoy. Destiny took Duke Bleyz down a different road. The road led him to a City of Knights. Sir L'bet'e deAcmd stepped forward to claim the throne. Duke Fergnany meet his challenge with the sword and deemed that Sir L'bet'e was earnest in his intent. Kincora has continued to grow, its knights train continually and the splendor of its artist's creations for tell of things to come. We are off to war once again to enjoy ourselves in sport with our friends. Learning, growing and practicing for the day, we may meet you.

Duchy of Somerset's Report

Our August event was in preparation of the next two months. We are having back to back demo's. One is for the Girl Scouts of America to be held at their local Girl Scout camp to teach them not only outdoor cooking but about life in the middle ages. It will be a two day event to be held over the weekend of September 16th and 17th. We will also be having two knightings in that weekend. Wilhelmus Blizce and his lovely wife Elizabeth Blizce have both earned their knighthoods in ministry. We had both archery and combat that weekend, the winner of the Huntsman archery tourney was Wilhelmus Blizce. The winner of the Bowman Archery was Juliana. The winner of the Schlager combat was Wilhelmus Blizce.

Our second event we are preparing for is the annual Metea Renfaire held this year on October 7&8 at Metea Park in Fort Wayne, Indiana. We use this event as not only a way to promote The Arian Empire, but as a way to raise some funds. We do this by running a maze which we charge $1 to go through. It broke even last year so we are excited about this year! We are also trying to add a few more things to help us raise some funds so wish us luck!

We had some wonderful things happen at the Imperial War for our Duchy. Congratulations to Captain Ansel, who was inducted into the Most Ancient Order of the Crown (Adria) Guards at the War! This honor is one of the oldest orders in Adria, and it was a wonderful moment for all of the Somerset contingent to be able to witness his induction. Vivat Captain Ansel!

Congratulations to Master Drew, who swore his squire's oath to His Grace Sir Arthur O'Tyne. Squire Drew was also given the personal favor of His Eminent Grace the Doge of Cambridge, as well as a token of esteem by Her Most Gracious Imperial Majesty. He has impressed many in the Northeast with his willingness to serve with enthusiasm. Vivat Squire Drew!

Congratulations to Brother Sebastian Javier de la Cruz, Somerset's newest member! The northeast War was Brother Sebastain's very first event, and he loves it!

He was inducted into the Church of Adria by Bishop Greco of Cambridge, and is delighted at the idea of a religious persona. Vivat Brother Sebastian!

Congratulations to Dame Halldora, who as usual impressed the entire War populace with the skills of her spoon. There were murmurings amidst the populace about potential nominations to the Order of the Golden Spoon...who knows what the future may bring? As Halldora would most likely say, "Broth for Freya!"

Vivat Dame Halldora!

Congratulations to Squire Daniel, who was created a Deputy to the Imperial Chancellor. HIM Ashlinn was most impressed with Squire Daniel's chivalry and good manners. She was also quite impressed with the leap he made to become a squire pile of one at the end of Squire Drew's oaths. Vivat Squire Daniel!

Shire of Gloucester

Of the doings of late of His Excellency, Sir Dorn das Schwarz Brause, Viceroy of Shire Gloucester; and of the Lords, Ladies, and Honorable Persons of the Noble Houses and Cantons therein, Chivalrous and Exemplary of all Cardinal Virtues.

Heed then, this account of the war with Alhambra and of the joining of such with the barbarian outlanders, the union of which did indeed repulse the armies of Gloucester in their rightful war to secure the eastern borders of shire Gloucester, and of the subsequent naming of Gloucester as a tributary state of Alhambra by His Grace, the Duke Capitaine E'Xavier de Normandie; this account from the hand of Scribe Alonzo Minimus, from the witness of his own eyes and the reports of many honorable and upstanding citizens of the realm; to Their Imperial Majesties and all Nobles of Adria, Greetings.

A.D. 2006. This year, being the first of His Excellency's reign; the battle three days before the kalends of August. It had been bekownst to the Lordships of Gloucester for some time of the Duke's designs upon our fair region, and his craving of control over the river trade routes to the western sea. In pursuit of his desires, the Duke moved with great boldness of purpose, directing his course of iniquity to a certain eastern township, Borde-Man, where he caused to be erected a keep upon the very shores of the river Columbia, and did much harm there. Having word of this outrage, and fearing no end to the Duke's lusts, His Excellency caused to be raised an Army of Gloucester. Preparations were many months in the making, as the Viceroy gathered his Champions, and Archers, and Men-at-Arms, and Knights, and Footsoldiers, from even the farthest reaches of the realm; and weapons were crafted, and provisions secured. The Shire rang with the blows of the smith's hammer, and all the Good and Honorable Peoples betook themselves with preparations, each according to their craft and inclination. The Duke spent not his time idly, as well he made ready his own Knights, and Champions, and Balistarus, and also caused to be crafted great and terrible Engines of War, knowing that the peoples of Gloucester collected against him.

At the appointed time, then, came the armies of Gloucester along the great northern road, following the river, hieing with all dispatch to Borde-Man; and a camp was set before the very gates of the garrison of the Alhambran's; for Gloucester would show no dismay at the strength of its foes. Upon the eve of battle, His Excellency and the Peoples of Gloucester did honor their worthy adversaries, no less resolute, with a feast, in proper obesiance to the forms of kanly; though token, parley was offered. While the winds howled a fury through the gorge, the peoples met and feasted in undiminished celebration, for the wealth of Gloucester's fertile lands was brought forth, and the finest muttons, and meads, and wine, and ales were served from The Viscount's generous table.

On the battle morn the peoples awoke to the macabre symphony of the carrion-birds, foreknowing the bloody feast to come. The many pennants and banners of the honorable Lords and Ladies snapped sharply in the winds, and the morning sun scintillated off of the arms and armour of the gathered fighters; and lo, in the night had landed the barbarian outlanders; hardy, doughty men and women, formidable warriors and far-seeing, who had joined with the Duke. As volleys of arrows darkened the sky, the field of honor exploded in cacophany of steel upon armour, upon flesh; and the shouts of the victorious, and the groans of the dying. The armies of Gloucester, sorely outnumbered by their foes' unholy union, and greviously hurt by the Duke's war-engines, did yet push their honorable adversaries to the very gates of the keep, and made a great slaughter beneath the hoarding. Alas, for the appearance of the Duke's Champion, and the groans of despair as as he smote the Knights of Gloucester with his dark lance; for at this turn it was known that the day must be lost. Seeing that the Duke's men and the barbarian outlanders would neither offer quarter nor take prisoners, but spared no one, the Noble warriors of Gloucester fought furiously; finally, seeing that Gloucester was slain to the last man, the Duke declared his victory.

The Duke's (temporal) supremacy assured, it was caused that artists and craftspeople of the realms should then be assembled, and that the peoples should now meet in peace; having shown the might of their arms, now would show each the fruits of their crafts. The showing and judging of each passed long into the evening, for such an assembly had not been seen for many a year. Gathered were the smiths, and coopers, and carpenters, brewers and cooks, weavers, potters, leatherworkers and furriers, bowyers and fletchers, and artists and artisans of all stripes. It is the hope of all that these great riches, those which lie in the thought and hands of a people; and the meeting of such, whether of Gloucester, Alhambra, or Outlander, will herald a new era of peace and prosperity for the North-West of Adria.

Alonzo Minimus, by the Grace of God, Scrivener and Chronicler to Gloucester.

From the Shire of Galloway

Greetings unto the Mighty Empire,

As the new Vicereine of Galloway, I would to thank the Imperials for allowing me to serve the Empire in this capacity. Galloway has struggled since its inception with recruitment and retention. However, I welcome the opportunity that has been bestowed upon me to change this downward spiral. The enthusiasm of its core group is high and refreshing. As with many small subdivisions, it will take time and considerable effort but I look forward to the future and hope that everyone in the area can come together soon and share their ideas and concerns so that we can chart Galloway's success onto the map of Adria.

We are planning our first organizational event for the 7th of October at 11am. We encourage everyone to come, bring a friend, a covered dish, and help us create a subdivision that will grow, prosper, and one the Empire will be proud of.

Anyone who would like to share their thoughts are welcome to email me privately at renwoman6869@yahoo.com. Thank you in advance for all your help and knowledge. I look forward to seeing and hearing from many.

In Service,

Dame Tara Callahan
Vicereine of Galloway
Knight Civil
Lady of the Imperial Court
Recipient of the Royal Star

Shire of Cashel Begins Rebuilding

The month of August has been a quiet but eventful one here in the Shire of Cashel. Our upcoming event is the Beauties of Caribbean Tournament, scheduled to coincide with the birthday of one of our members. We look forward to a day of great fun and feasting.

August has seen the creation of our sub-divisional banner by HE Dame Emilie Penrose Blackwell. We are now in the process of making several more of these banners so that each of our Cantons and Households may have one to display at events and demonstrations.

August has also seen the design and creation of a new website. At this time, Sir Kaeyron A. Maethanos has been kind enough to host the site through his personal web space and we are using a free alias to access the site. As such, there is an advertisement before you reach our webpage – we hope to upgrade to a paid hosting and alias service in the next month or so and be able to get rid of these ads. In addition to getting the website up and running, the Chronicler's office is also in the process of writing and publishing the inaugural newsletter. There are several possible titles to choose from and our populace is enjoying the opportunity to vote for their favorite. This newsletter will be available through our website, so keep an eye out for the upcoming issue.

The device of Cashel shows a phoenix rising out of a fire. A true representation of rebirth and rebuilding.

A Seafaring Event in Cashel

Text adapted by Aoibheann Maethanos from the original by Dame Patricia Sparr and Lord Migele Parodini

Cashel's August event had a piratical (as opposed to Corsair) theme and was hosted at Casae Equinus in honor of the birthday of Ariana bella de Mar. Gold coins were given out to those who won the various lists, won certain games or performed certain tasks. They could also be won or lost during games of chance. The purpose of the contest was for participants to gather the most coins towards the goal of becoming the best pirate of the bunch and securing the "grand" prize. In addition to fulfilling the tournament requirement for August, the make-up tournament for May was also held at this event. A potluck feast was held to cap off the event. Luckily, the weather cooperated and it turned out to be a beautiful day.

After opening court, the lists were opened and the various contests for the day were begun. We added a twist to combat tournaments by requiring each combatant to tuck a pirate flag in their belt. The object was to grab the flag out of your opponent's belt while they were still "alive". In other words, one could not retrieve the flag from an opponent's "dead" body. HG Sir Kerrigan de Wenseslaus was the only person to get a point (and a coin) by getting the flag in this manner. Through the mastery of his sword, Sir Kerrigan wounded Dame Celestria in both arms so that she was unable to fight back. Since his opponent was no longer able to fight, Sir Kerrigan took the flag and then dispatched his worthy opponent.

Being on the open seas is a dangerous business made all the more so because of the beasties lurking below that threaten to pull hapless mariners and luckless ships into the inky depths. Instead of shooting at traditional archery targets, archers took aim at a Krakken. A picture of a deadly Krakken was painted on the target and archers were awarded points on their ability to hit the Krakken. Of course, tentacles were given less point value than the body and one could get the most points by piercing the Krakken's uvula hanging down from its open gullet. (NOTE: The "uvula" is that little thing that hangs down in the back of your throat and makes you gag or cough if it gets "tickled"). This change in the standard lists was received with much enthusiasm by the participants.

Participants competing to become the best pirate of the day were made to walk the plank (while blindfolded), answer riddles, bob for apples, and go on a treasure hunt using their wits and a compass to find the treasure. Of course, since pirates are wont to gamble, participants could also try their hand at dice to increase their hoard of coins. Several pirates (and even some law abiding folks) were spotted spending quite a bit of time placing bids at the dice table. Many lost more than they gained - which is usually the way of dice.

The opportunity to cool off (it gets hot and muggy in Tidewater Virginia in August!) and work on combat skills at the same time came during the melee scenarios. They were fought using "pool noodle" swords (soaked in barrels of water) and water laden "missile" weapons. I'm not sure who enjoyed it more - the combatants or the spectators. Our own "Captain Jack" and Sir Kerrigan both received a thorough drenching at the end of the melees.

The tournament was well attended by many Adrians as well as guests and lookers-on. A fun time was had by all as evidenced by the wide smiles on people's faces, the good natured laughing and guffawing, as well as by the late hour when people left. To date, two new members have joined the ranks of Adria because of this event. I look forward to next year's event hosted by Casae Equinus at Parodi's Paradise.

Shire of Valencia puts Focus on Recruitment

Well if there is one thing that every small group can agree on it's that it is difficult to do ANYTHING without people.

Valencia is in that very position right now. We have a few members who are extremely hard working and devoted to Adria; but who all work different shifts mundanely. We have found scheduling of meetings to be difficult when trying to appease everyone's schedules and let's face it, meetings of 2 or 3 people just are no fun.

With this in mind, we realize that we MUST grow in order to have more people available to do more fun things at more often intervals. Hence our group's main focus now is on recruiting. We would love to hear from anyone that has ideas on what kind of recruiting 2 or 3 people (who are not steel fighters) can do to draw the attention of prospective members. Please feel free to email us at crowns@adria-valencia.org.

Shire of Burgandy

The Northeast Imperial War was held here in our lands and although the weather was inclement for one half of the weekend, we still feel the event to be a huge success. Despite the weather, thanks to the Round Top Pavilion, we still managed to hold all of the combat tournaments on Saturday and all battles on Sunday. We are happy to announce that the first Armored Steel Battle of the Northeast was held, due to having enough armored combatants. VIVAT NORTHEAST!

Thank you to all who attended and who worked with us for making the weekend a most wondrous experience for us! We wish to give a special thank you to HIM Ashlinn Tiernan for attending. We hope you truly enjoyed your weekend. We did manage to get some pleasant and worthwhile press exposure from the weekend. The article(s) have been uploaded to the Imperial Listserve under the files section.

Upcoming events within the Shire include another demo at the Bloomsburg Town Library, as per their request and a possible excursion to the Pennsylvania Renaissance Faire, held in Lancaster, PA, with our friends from neighboring subdivisions.

Until next month, we remain,

North East Imperial War Makes a Difference in a Child's Life

(an edited excerpt from a letter)

Over the last few years I have watched sadly as she has grown into a depressed and withdrawn child who carries a scowl upon her face. The values I tried so hard to instill within her have slowly been cast aside as she found so many of her peers not giving a damn about traditions, morals, courtesies and such.

This weekend, I watched as something different took place. A smile. A giggle. Even a laugh. I watched as a child who had stopped caring about courtesy held and umbrella over an Imperial while she got rained upon. I watched as a child who had to be yelled at to clean her own room, took it upon herself without direction to do so, get up after a feast and pickup marshmallows from the floor so they would not be stepped on and make a mess. I listened to a child put the welfare and desire of strangers above her own by refusing to accept help in a kitchen preferring that the people go enjoy themselves while she worked twice as hard to get things done saying only "dad and I got it under control, we can handle it, go have fun". I listened as a child explained to me on the way home that she had given up on the values I had taught her as she did not think that they existed in today's society and how she felt refreshed to see that there were people who still believed in them. I listened on the way home to a child who had become excited about the things I love and believe in. I listened to a child who found a reason. I listened to a future knight.

Valencia's Newest Young Member Speaks Out About Her War Experience

This was my first experience of this kind; having only gone to renfaires before this, I was not sure what to expect.

When my dad asked me to go along with him to this I was more than excited and did not expect it to be as big of a deal as it is. But, there is a lot of positions and sub organizations in the group and it is very hard to keep it all straight. However, on the drive to the event and on the drive home we all spoke about it in the car almost nonstop! I learned that in this organization women have more opportunities then they did in the middle ages and that makes being a woman in Adria more fun. And I think I would like to become knighted in ministry, working with the kids. It was great to get to go to this event and be able to talk to so many people with different positions and its great to see that every person is needed and wanted.

The people were great and I had a wonderful time. I also learned a lot too! I learned about Adria and how important it is to have an organization like this around. I learned about the war and combat. Battle was something that I have never fully understood about those ages. However, I learned that honor is a very big thing; both on the field and within the organization itself. I noticed a lot of honorable acts being down on the field and it was great to see that. I also learned that fighting in Adria is not just fun and games; it takes a great deal of concentration, skill, practice, and learning. I would also like to get into combat. I would love to extend my knowledge in this part as well.

Organizations like this one are so important to everyone involved and not involved because it allows people to learn about things that they never knew and have no other chance to learn about and they do it in such a fun way. No matter if you are a member or one watching you learn so much and it is important to continue this because we can not let such things from the past die out.

I am very proud to be a part of this organization and can not wait to get to another event and learn all that I can. I had such a great time at the event and was very emotional to be leaving after only two days. I want to thank EVERYONE involved for making my first war such an exciting, educational, and fun event.

As Imperial Chronicler I am saddened that I do not have any photos to showcase in this issue from Imperial War West; however, I did not receive any submissions from anyone who was in attendance there. As part of my duties in reporting the happenings of the Empire, I took it upon myself to search through all the YaHoo groups of the western subdivisions which have seen fit to grant me access. Sadly none of these groups had photos from the war uploaded to them either. Please remember in the future that the Herald is here for you to let everyone know what is going on in your area and if used properly it can also be a great recruiting tool.

I am urging EVERYONE to be diligent in submitting something to this office EACH month. It is the only way this newsletter will be capable of fulfilling it's goals.

Deputy Imperial Archery Minister

At Imperial War the archer's shot for two days, on Saturday the Imperial War Tournament was held and also late Sunday afternoon. The results of the Imperial shoot: Bowman list for the Templer's, Huntsman list was for the Hosp. Combine list was for the Templer's. The championship round was won by His Majesty, the King of Umbria Sir Blackarrow, winning score of 44. For second place was a three way tie, Sir Troyanno, Dame Margarita, m'lord Penworthy all scored 42 points.

Sunday Morning was a Dragon and Phoenix shoot. This was a fun tournament prize bragging rights, Sir Blackarrow, HRM of Umbria took the win of 40 points. This shoot was done to honor a wonderful lady from the Kingdom of Albion, every year she had devoted time on the archery range, She is known at the Dragon Lady of Albion.

His Majesty, Sir Blackarrow autocrated a night shoot on Sunday, using Glow Sticks taped to regular targets and each archer was given three glow sticks for three arrows. This was only for fun, later in the evening, some of the archers were seen carrying the archery targets to each encampment for everyone to see.

I would like to say thank you to everyone who helped on the archery range, Sir Connors and Sir Gregory, the Imperial Herald who worked both days on the range . Hazzah to all.

See you on the Archery Range for Banner War in 2007.

Victory for the Hospitalers

I drove up on the Friday of the War looking forward to a weekend full of fun both on and off of the field, and with the exception of only a few issues, I was not disappointed. I did go with a few things missing; first, my heart. The Queen was suffering from a near ear infection and was not going to camp that weekend. Second, somehow I managed to get my tent without my tent poles but our good herald came to my rescue. I spent that night carousing with the Order and drinking lots of apple goodness and enjoyed a fun War Council with Sir Burke Campbell at 2:00 AM. The next day the Queen awoke me with my magical cell phone in time to get ready for Opening court presided by HIH Dame Katherine Marshall who was the Imperial Crown's Representative since they were traveling back to the lands back east for their wars. The Day was filled with grand honorable combat and both sides gave a good accounting for themselves. When Saturday ended the Hospitalers were slightly behind but good news from the artisans that we were doing well and that Master John Greyscale had earned a Masterwork, Huzzah! Saturday night was the high point for both me and my Queen for Terre Neuve came together and had a Potluck feast in the grand tradition of Old. There was much good Food and Drink and I had such a good time that I did not leave Eagleroost's encampment until well into the wee hours in the morning. Sunday was filled with fun and the archery range and we took turns slaying mythical beasts and shooting for war points. I had the honor of fighting several honorable combatants from other parts of our Empire and made it to the semifinals until I was called away for Kingdom business. Sunday night at closing court the points were announced for combat and Archery and the Hospitalers were behind when Sir Angus of Umbria, the Imperial Minister of Arts and Science, announced that the Hospitalers' Artisans had carried the day and captured all 8 points!!! There was great cry of joy from our army and I shook the hand of HRM Sir Donovan as it was a great battle and a good time was had by all. Court was closed by the ceremony of Terre Neuve's friend Sir Connor taking his third level knighthood in Archery. After court it was so late I was enticed to stay another night and spent the night shooting magical glowing arrows, being entertained by a sex in the Middle Ages collegium and late into the night had the honor of witnessing the Knighting of Squire Zigfried. I then traveled back to the lands of Terre Neuve the next day reflecting on the things that brought me joy and brought me to tears this war. I came to the conclusion that the best thing about this war is I got to spend it with my Adrian Family. With all families there is both good and bad, that no matter what happens we still care and we will get through it together no matter what!

Sailing the Seven Seas by Mistress Shannon (Lady of the Silver Arrow)

Well, sit right back and you'll here a tale
A tale of the Silver Arrow
It started out on the ocean waves
As we set sail on the seven seas for our next plunder, (crash)

The weather started getting tough,
The Silver Arrow was tossed,
And all the members of the crew,
Well, we knew that we were lost...
We knew that we were lost...

We landed on a deserted isle,
The Silver Arrow in need of repair
We made a home with what we had
And awaited rescue in despair,
And awaited rescue in despair...

There's Hamish, the Military Protocol Captain,
The Captain Juanramon too, who was drinking all the ale,
The First Mate, Horace of the Glenn and all his knives,
The lady of the ship, that's me,
The rest of the crew and our son, Enriqueramon too,
Here on the deserted isle...
