

Unto the Estates and Membership of Adria:

Greetings. It has been my honor to serve as President of the Board of Directors for the past year. We set several goals, some of which have been met and some of which are in progress.

The first goal was one of transparency. That goal is in progress. We are trying to build a member-facing page that allows members to access the BoD documents but keeps them private from the general public. Minutes with attached replies to member questions have been submitted for approval and publication for this past year. There have been some logistical issues with publication due to privacy concerns and a great deal of discussion about member privacy and what information should be on the public-facing pages. Moving forward, these will be published 30 days after the meeting; however we do need the CEO (Imperial Crown) of the organization to approve them in terms of privacy issues prior to release.

Secondly, I wished to create a handbook for incoming BoD members, which would also be useful to the general membership to understand the current roles and responsibilities of the BoD. This has been vetted through the members of the BoD and has been sent to the chancery for legal review, per TIM directions. We hope to release this for public commentary and view ASAP, pending legal review by the chancery.

Third, there have been years of minutes and questions and answers dealt with by the BoD, which creates a great deal of frustration within membership of the Adria and of the BoD as a working body when time is spent re-researching and rediscussing the same issues with each new board. We are working on compiling all of those documents into a central location, sorted and organized, so that when a question returns to the BoD, the original research and answer is readily available for review and analysis, and can be addressed with focus on the current state of Adria and updated as needed. Leslie Burgess has taken the lead on this project, but it requires a great deal of cooperation between a variety of ministries and individuals. We expect to have this project completed in the next regnal year.

I thank you for your interest in the Board of Directors, and for allowing me to serve as a member of the Board for another year.

In service,

Christina Cox

President of the Board of Directors.
